

Miami-Dade Emergency Management (MDEM) & the National Weather Service's (NWS) Miami Forecast Office is hosting a free SKYWARN class.

Join the ranks of severe weather spotters that assist the NWS in providing better watches and warnings.

Date: Saturday, January 21st, 2012
Time: 9:30A.M. – 2:00P.M.
Location: Miami-Dade County EOC
9300 NW 41st Street
Miami, FL 33178

Register by email to:
eocplanningsection@miamidade.gov

Be sure to include SKYWARN in the subject line and provide your name, the name of all in your party if registering together, and a daytime phone contact.

Class size is limited so please register early. Registration will be accepted through Wednesday, January 18th, 2012.

The SKYWARN spotter program is a nationwide network of volunteers trained by the NWS to report significant weather. It is strongly recommended that participants be 18 years of age or older.

- Free parking will be available in the rear of the building.
- A photo ID must be presented to security upon entering the building. A photo will be taken and a temporary ID issued
- Participants should bring a lunch or snacks
- For more information visit <http://www.nws.noaa.gov/skywarn/>.

